In The Press

"If these first releases are any indication, the future is very bright for this team." – Jeb Dunnuck

"Varinder and Anita Sahi's Copia, inspired by a road trip to Paso Robles in 2015 and founded two years later, is one of the names to watch in the region." -Ray Isle, Food & Wine Magazine

"That westside expression—characterized by limestone-rich soils, diurnal temperature shifts, and small-berry concentration—is central to Copia's identity. Each wine, whether from estate fruit or select partner vineyards, is meant to reflect both place and precision…At the heart of Copia's evolution is a dual devotion—to the land and to the people who share their table." – Lisa Perrotti-Brown, The Wine Palate
